

Globalizace nemilosrdně boří tradice ústní lidové slovesnosti na Ostravsku !!!

Následující plakát SKUTEČNĚ visí v prostorách nedávno otevřené ostravské pobočk továrn taiwanské firm SUS (jeden z největších výrobců notebooků) !!!

It has been brought to our attention by several officials visiting our office in Ostrava that offensive language is commonly used by our Czech speaking staff. Such behavior, in addition to violating our policy, is highly unprofessional and offensive to both visitors and staff. All personnel will immediately adhere to the following rules:

01. Words like "kurva, kokot, do píce" and other such expressions will not be tolerated or used for emphasis or dramatic effect, no matter how heated a discussion may become.

02. You will not say "zkurvil" when someone makes a mistake, or "srali na mne" if you see someone being reprehended, or "hovno" when a major mistake has been made. All forms and derivations of the verb "srat" and "jebat" are utterly inappropriate and unacceptable in our environment.

03. No project manager, section head or administrator under any circumstances will be referred to as "kurva sikhmooka, kokot, buzerant or hajzl".

04. Lack of determination will not be referred to as "srac" or will persons who lack initiative be referred to as "chuj".

05. Unusual or creative ideas offered by management are not to be referred to as "kokotiny".

06. Do not say poser se if somebody is persistent; do not add "vymrd", if a colleague is going through a difficult situation. Furthermore, you must not say "dojebali sme to" (refer to item 2) nor "na toto jebeme" when a matter becomes excessively complicated.

07. When asking someone to leave you alone, you must not say "jdi do píce" nor should you ever substitute "May I help you?" with, "co do píce chces?".

08. Under no circumstances should you ever call your elderly industrial partners "zkurveny dodavatel".

09. Do not say "jdete do píce s tou kokotinou" when a relevant project is presented to you, nor should you ever answer "jsi se asi posral" when your assistance is required.

10. You should never call partner representatives as "jebnuty curak or zkurveny hajzl".

11. Last but not least, after reading this note, please do not say "polibte mi prdel"! Just keep it clean and dispose of it properly.

Thank you.
